Hi Nona,

The e-mail you sent me did not show any strike-through text as it did in the word document. Therefore, I did not delete it. I will resend the e-mail this morning. Thanks for the information.

regards,

Paul

Rajiv and I were concerned about the email that went to STPNOC. It did not appear that the edits we made to your draft were executed correctly, thus resulting in a somewhat confusing email. We think we know what happened. I had stricken some text that should have been removed, but Rajiv thinks that your email system removed all of the formatting and thus did not show the strike-through text in my email and therefore it did not get deleted in the email you sent.

I think that it might be a good idea to resend the email to STPNOC to avoid any confusion. Blame it on the computers.

I have attached a Word document that includes the edited version that I sent to you so that you can see the strike outs. I also included a clean version in the same document so that you can cut and paste into a new email to Greg, if you so choose. I apologize for any confusion and hope this will no longer be an issue after the NRC completes its transition to Outlook.
