Dear Mr. Bellville:

I am pleased to learn that you have completed the requirements for the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest honor in Scouting and one achieved by fewer than three percent of all Scouts. I know that your parents and Scout leaders are proud of your record.

Since its founding in 1910, the Boy Scouts of America has provided outstanding training in character development, citizenship training, and personal fitness. One of the more important requirements for an Eagle Scout is to demonstrate participation in increasingly more responsible service projects. I am confident that your experience in these projects will serve you well in your future endeavors. In fact, many of our nation's governmental, business, and professional leaders were Eagle Scouts.

I congratulate you on your achievement and extend to you my best wishes for the future.

Sincerely,

/RA/

Eliot B. Brenner, Director
Office of Public Affairs
