Dear Mr. Park,

I am almost 64, have to work until I'm at least 70 or 72. I'm a woman who truly believes in protecting our environment, and now am hopeful about the United States for the first time in years because the recent election has proven to me that there are many people, beside me, who believe we must be better stewards of our earth, our environment, our people.

Because of that, I am writing to you to ask that the NRC follow the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and conduct individual environmental impact statements for all proposed in situ uranium mines. The people of the potentially impacted areas and communities deserve the respect and individual attention the NRC should be giving when considering something as potentially dangerous as an in situ uranium mine.

There is no one size fits all approach to uranium mining across the country and the NRC should be conducting individual assessments of the areas to make sure the environmental risks are taken into consideration. A GEIS will not spotlight potential problems in any of the proposed areas and could lead to devastating impacts on the environment, ecosystems and communities in the area.

Thank you for taking my letter seriously in your consideration. Please make a sound decision that will protect our environment and increase the strength of our earth stewardship. This decision will affect the future of all the children to come.

Thank you,

Christina Shriver
