18G Design Development and Validation Testing

The information in this appendix of the reference ABWR DCD, including all subsections, tables and figures, is incorporated by reference with the following standard supplement.

This section of the reference ABWR DCD provides a historical description of activities that occurred in 1986-91 and may not reflect the current design. Design development and validation testing are part of the Human-System Interface (HSI) design process discussed in Section 18.7, Section 18.8.1, and Appendix 18E of the reference ABWR DCD.