Encl: (1) Tritium Exit Sign Inventory

1. In accordance with references (a) and (b), the United States Marine Corps does not possess any damaged tritium exit signs. An extensive search for tritium exit signs was conducted on all USMC installations beginning February 26, 2009. All discovered tritium exit signs have either been removed from service and placed into Low Level Radioactive Waste (LLRW) storage pending scheduled disposal by the Naval Sea Command Radiological Affairs and Support Office (RASO) LLRW Disposal Program, or left in place and tracked by the Installation Radiation Safety Officer and the Radiological Control Office until the signs are handed over to RASO for proper disposal.

2. The enclosure, provided for your information, contains the location of LLRW storage areas within the Marine Corps which currently have tritium exit signs awaiting pick-up by the RASO LLRW Disposal Program Office, and locations of signs discovered during this search. The RASO LLRW Disposal Program Office is responsible for generating the disposal record for the tritium exit signs, as required by Title 10, Code of Federal Regulations Part 31.5.

3. Point of contact is James (Mitch) Hicks, Logistics Command Director of the Radiological Control Office, at commercial phone (229) 639-7146 or DSN 567-7146.
