NRC NAMES NEW SENIOR RESIDENT INSPECTOR
AT HARRIS NUCLEAR POWER PLANT

Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials in Atlanta have announced the assignment of Mr. Joseph Brady as the agency's Senior Resident Inspector at the Harris nuclear power plant, located near Raleigh, North Carolina.

He succeeds Mr. Stephen Elrod, who has retired from the NRC.

Since 1986, Mr. Brady has held NRC assignments as a Project Engineer and Inspector in the NRC's Region II office in Atlanta, and most recently, as a Reactor Engineer in the Region II Division of Reactor Safety. Before joining the NRC, he was an engineer for the Brunswick Corporation and Chevron USA, and an officer in the U.S. Navy. He received a Bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering from Purdue University.

Mr. Brady assumed his official duties at the Harris plant on March 18, 1996, joining NRC Resident Inspector Darrell Roberts.
