REVISION 13a

The following changes are being made to the RBS Training and Qualification Plan to address items identified in NRC Inspection Report No. 50-458/00-08. Changes are denoted by a dotted line on the affected T&Q pages.

ITEM #1 FAMILIARIZATION TRAINING

SECTION/TITLE: Section Various

PROPOSED COMMITMENT:

Currently reads:

“2.2.2 TASKS, CONDITIONS AND STANDARDS

or if annotated with an “I&F”, indicates Initial Qualification and Familiarization training requirements as minimum standards.”

“2.2.2.3 FAMILIARIZATION (F) TRAINING

Duty positions listed in Section 7.0 with the annotation “I&F” require initial qualification training and may be satisfied thereafter by familiarization training as indicated in Section 2.4. These tasks are routinely performed by most members of the security organization on a frequent basis such as operation of a portable radio. These tasks are satisfied by HOC or FC tests (or combination thereof).

Some members of the security organization may require requalification training while others may require familiarization training depending on each member’s job functions and duties and frequency of performance of the crucial task.”

“6.8 Duty Qualification Tests - A battery of tests designed to measure the demonstrated ability of a member of the Security Force to perform all the crucial tasks associated with the security related duties of his/her shift assignment on the Security Force. Each battery of tests may include any or all of three components:

Familiarization Component (FC) - Those aspects of the recertification program that permit an examinee to meet recertification requirements by: 1) demonstrating knowledge of current procedural requirements to a Security Supervisor or Security Training Specialist; or 2) a Security Supervisor or Security Training Specialist acknowledging that the examinee routinely performs a task and can effectively implement the task in accordance with current procedural requirements; or 3) a combination thereof.”

2.1 TRAINING REQUIREMENTS

Prior to assignment on the RBS Security Force, individuals who must perform security related crucial tasks, as identified in Section 7.0, are trained to perform such tasks associated with the individual's duty assignment. The training includes an entry level training program, an annual cycle of retraining and a program whereby observed deficiencies are corrected through retraining, when necessary. The effectiveness of the Security Force in executing contingency response tasks are not performed in normal operations but are maintained through periodic team exercises. A grade of 70% is required for passing written examinations taken as a result of classroom training. Crucial tasks tested through performance or hands-on certification components, as indicated in Section 2.2.4, are graded on a Pass-Fail basis.

2.2 QUALIFICATION REQUIREMENTS

Each individual on the Security Force is required to initially qualify for their assigned duty position in accordance with this section. The Crucial Task Matrix in Section 7.0, identifies crucial tasks cross-referenced to the RBS Physical Security and Safeguards Contingency Plans; work conditions and minimum standards for performance of these tasks; and duty positions that must perform the indicated crucial tasks. Documentation requirements are provided in sections 2.2.5 and 2.3.

2.2.1 TASK IDENTIFICATION SUMMARY

The matrix in Section 7.0, lists all crucial tasks required to implement the RBS Physical Security and Safeguards Contingency Plans and cross-references such tasks to their respective source(s). The notations "SP" and "SCP" on the matrix indicate reference to the RBS Physical Security Plan and the Safeguards Contingency Plan, respectively.

2.2.2 TASKS, CONDITIONS AND STANDARDS

The matrix in Section 7.0, describes the crucial tasks, conditions and minimum standards which are the foundation of the Security Training and Qualification Program. Each task annotated with an "I&R" indicates Initial Qualification and Requalification training requirements.

2.2.2.1 INITIAL (I) QUALIFICATION TRAINING

Each member of the security organization must initially meet the crucial task certification requirements of their duty position by successfully completing HOC or WC tests (or combination thereof).

2.2.2.2 REQUALIFICATION (R) TRAINING

Duty positions listed in Section 7.0 with the annotation "I&R" require initial qualification and requalification training as indicated in Section 2.4. These tasks must be satisfied by HOC or WC tests (or combination thereof).

2.2.3 TASK AND DUTY SUMMARY

The matrix in Section 7.0 cross-references all crucial tasks to duty positions on the RBS Security Force, indicating which organizational elements must be qualified to perform the indicated tasks.

2.2.4 DUTY QUALIFICATION

Prior to shift assignment, security personnel must successfully demonstrate performance of all crucial tasks to specified standards associated with that shift assignment to the satisfaction of the EOI Security Supervisor. Routine on-the-job performance of appropriate tasks will suffice when completed to specified standards.

2.2.5 INDIVIDUAL QUALIFICATION RECORDS

The duty qualification record for each individual assigned security related duties is available on site for a period of three years. Each record contains:

Acknowledgment by signature of the EOI Security Supervisor that each individual has successfully performed all crucial tasks associated with the examinee's assigned duties.

For each crucial task and exam, a record containing the date of successfully performance, the signature or initials of the designated observer or training officer, and the initials or signature of the examinee.

2.2.6 TEST MATERIALS

Current samples of tests utilized to evaluate members of the Security Force for each task listed in Section 7.0 are available at the site.

2.3 CONTRACT PERSONNEL

Contract security personnel are trained, equipped, and qualified in accordance with this Plan. The adequacy of those portions of the training and qualification program conducted by the Security Force Contractor are verified by EOI audit.

2.4 REQUALIFICATION

After initial qualification, personnel are required to requalify every 12 months thereafter, to perform assigned duties and associated crucial tasks for both normal and contingency operations, in accordance with this Plan. Requalification may be accomplished by a supervisor observing an individual's routine on-the-job performance when that performance meets the standards specified in the Plan. The results of qualification training and requalification testing are documented in accordance with Section 2.2.5.

3.0 WEAPONS TRAINING

- A. Armed personnel on the RBS Security Force qualify on assigned weapons prior to a shift assignment. Handguns and shotguns are utilized at RBS.
- B. Training in the use of each weapon covers the following topics:
 - 1. Mechanical assembly and disassembly (as prescribed for operator level only).
 - 2. Bull's-eye firing (handgun only).
 - 3. Range and penetration capability of the weapon.
 - 4. Weapons cleaning and storage.
 - 5. Combat firing, day and nighttime, or simulated.
 - 6. Safe weapons handling.
 - 7. Clearing, loading, unloading, and reloading.
 - 8. When to draw and point a weapon (in accordance with the Standards for Crucial Task #5).

- 6.3 Attestment - The process by which a licensee EOI Security Supervisor certifies that a member of the security organization has successfully completed duty qualification tests for the assigned duty position. A member of the security organization or station watchperson may perform any function in which they are qualified and attested by a licensee Security Supervisor.
- 6.4 Certification/Recertification - The attestation of an EOI Security Supervisor that the required screening, training, or other requisites of this plan or the Security Plan have been completed. The completion of the certified activity may have been conducted by a third party, subject to verification by an Entergy Operations official.
- 6.5 Conditions - Those events, equipment or work station effects that members of the Security Force experience while performing a given task.
- 6.6 Crucial Task(s) - An act or series of acts performed by a member of the Security Force that produces a product or an achievable result crucial to the implementation of the RBS Physical Security or Safeguards Contingency Plans.
- 6.7 Duty - A general statement of a group or series of tasks conducted within a single duty position.
- 6.8 Duty Qualification Tests - A battery of tests designed to measure the demonstrated ability of a member of the Security Force to perform all the crucial tasks associated with the security related duties of his/her shift assignment on the Security Force. Each battery of tests may include any or all of three components:

Hands On Component (HOC) - Those aspects of the testing program that allow a supervisor to observe performance of a routine crucial task on-the-job or in a training environment and rate performance in accordance with specified standards.

Written Component (WC) - Those written tests used to measure decision-making skills or mental abilities requiring reading or writing skills. A passing score is 70 percent or higher.

Team Performance Component (TPC) - Those tests that measure the individual's ability to perform team-oriented tasks using actual equipment in a training environment.

- 6.9 Licensee EOI Security Supervisor - The Superintendent-Plant Security and those licensee proprietary security personnel who report directly to him. This is limited to the EOI

Security Staff and licensee personnel that may perform duties as a Security Specialist/Coordinator/Supervisor. Although some of the proprietary security licensee employees do not have "Supervisor" in their job title, all have supervisory responsibilities as defined in 10CFR73.2 "Security Supervisor".

- 6.11 Security Officer/Watchperson - A member of the security organization whose primary duty is the protection of special nuclear material against theft, the protection of the site against radiological sabotage, or both. Members of the security organization may be armed or unarmed dependent on the individual's qualification level.
- Nuclear Security Officer - When assigned duties requiring a weapon, members of the security organization must meet the armed Security Officer qualification level and be trained on crucial tasks 1 through 15, 18 as well as 16 and/or 17, as appropriate.
 - Nuclear Watch Officer - When assigned duties that do not require a weapon, members of the security organization may be referred to as a Nuclear Watch Officer and must meet the Nuclear Watch Officer qualification level and be trained in crucial tasks 1 through 6. Nuclear Watch Officers may also be trained to perform crucial tasks 8 through 11 (or any portion thereof).
- 6.12 Shift Assignment - Duty position(s) within the Security Force. An example is the Alarm Station Supervisor.
- 6.13 Standards - Those measurable and observable characteristics of a task that tell how well it is being or has been performed.
