Subject: Nuclear waste disposal in Utah

Concerning the nuclear waste headed for the Goshute Indian Reservation:
I just have one question, (and I would like an answer). If the nuclear waste is as harmless as the utility companies claim it is, why don't they keep it in their states?

I am concerned that the shipments would be a natural target for terrorists. I doubt that the shipping casks would really survive a terrorist attack. I am opposed to the shipping of this material on our highways and railways. I am more opposed to storing it only 45 miles from Salt Lake City.

Practically no one here trusts the government after all of the lies, deceit, and cover-ups. (Referring to the down winders, or the mass of sheep that were killed from "government nerve gas testing", or... you get the picture). Do you think we should trust your judgment now? How can we? Your decision to allow the shipments can only lead to more government distrust and heartache for the citizens of Utah. Make those utility companies store their waste in their states. Ship it down their highways!
Please keep it out of Utah!
