Comments: I am asking for an extension of the Monday, October 16, 2000 deadline for public comment about nuclear plant licensing. Nuclear plants are so dangerous and you can't lie to me and tell me they're not. I know they are. I've talked to families who have paid for our excessive consumption of electricity. Why doesn't the cost of that get added on to the price? Shouldn't someone pay? Does all of this consumption make us happy? No. It makes us stupid and evil. And we can live with it because we think that the principles we apply to our lives at work can be completely different from the principles we apply to the rest of our lives. But guess what? They can't. Eventually we will all learn that. Eventually we'll discover what and who we've lost and what and who we've hurt by pretending.
