NRC,

I wholeheartedly disagree with your plans to market contaminated soils to construction companies, farmers, golf courses, and other commercial entities.

I was shocked to hear of this plan and cannot beleive that you are actually considering it. There are enough chemical dangers in our foods and groundwater as it is. And you'd like introduce radioactive soil into our playgrounds and our marketplace. I don't know anyone that wants a house built out of radioactive bricks.

I stress to you the health problems that people have still today in Russia and Japan, where low level radiation still exists.

My Father worked in a nuclear plant for years, and was exposed to "low level" radiation daily. He now has fybromialgia, carpel tunnel, respiratory problems, chronic pain, and etc.

Please throw out your plan. It is a public health hazard. We need to shut the plants down and focus on renewable energies.
