Comments: Form ES-401-9, column 2, requires the NRC reviewer to evaluate difficulty of an exam question and rate its difficulty from 1 to 5. The instructions on the form state that any question evaluated as a 1 or 5 is unacceptable. However, there is no criteria for this rating system other than the implication that 1 = too easy and 5 = too difficult.

The phrases, too easy and too difficult, are subjective as they are affected by the background and experience of the reviewer. Therefore, I recommend either deleting this column or offering criteria that defines what is "too easy" and "too hard."
