Bill -

I just got off the phone with Dale Wuokko, our licensing contact at Davis-Besse, and I relayed your message that based on the quality of the photographs, the staff is unable to make an independent assessment or determination of the CRDM vessel head penetrations. I asked Dale whether there was a significant difference in quality between the original photos and those submitted to the staff and whether it would be worthwhile to have original photos expressed mailed to the staff. He plans to investigate these options.

I also told him that the staff expects to provide its technical assessment to the ACRS and NEI today.
