Gentlemen:

The subject QA Topical Report was accepted in August of 1988. Since that time several organizational changes have been identified to you (in letters dated 11/17/89, 8/8/90, 7/26/91, 1/12/93, 6/8/93, 4/16/96, and 7/22/99).

Recently a major corporate management restructuring has occurred and the attached management organization chart is in effect.

There are now three operating divisions and one support division. The operating divisions are Power and Energy Division, Government Services Division, and Process and Operations and Maintenance Services Division. The support division is the Corporate Resources and Technology Division. This support division provides the three operating divisions with trained personnel and expertise in Engineering and Design, Procurement, Project Control (cost and schedule) and Construction. It is within this division that the Burns and Roe Quality Assurance function resides.

The Burns and Roe Director of Quality Assurance (Mr. R.C. Baumbach) and persons assigned to the function have sufficient authority and organizational freedom to identify quality problems; to initiate, recommend, and provide solutions; and to verify implementation of the solutions. These personnel have the required authority and organizational freedom, including sufficient independence from cost and schedule when opposed to safety considerations. The Director has direct access to all levels of Burns and Roe management as may be necessary to perform the quality assurance function.
