I want to share with you two ADAMS records that might be helpful to you and the staff when you are reviewing records to determine if they contain information that could be potentially helpful to an adversary. I understand the criteria in these two ADAMS records has been approved by the DEDOs and is currently under review by the Commission.

A WORD OF CAUTION! As stated in the network announcement, the FOIA exemptions are applied the same way they were applied prior to the 9/11 attacks When the staff believes they have located records that could be potentially helpful to an adversary, these records should be listed separately and a sensitivity statement included in your response. However, just because the information meets the criteria set out in these two ADAMS records that does not necessarily mean the information can legally be withheld when responding to a FOIA request
