The West Virginia Coal Association stated that the Coal Mountain Childress Plant was portable. In the late 80's, the Coal Mountain plant was taken down. Gregg Bailey, a former employee of Childress Services (304) 253-2552, says that the land was sold to JEM Resources. After exhaustive attempts, the inspector could not locate any information on JEM Resources. From previous inspection reports, Mr. John J. Childress II, the former president of Childress Services Corporation can be contacted at (304) 890-1331. The inspector also found a PN in NUDOCs regarding a lost source. The PN does not contain enough information to conclude that it concerns one of the devices under this RCODE (see attached PN). This case was sent to the PI for completion (see attached email).
Describe Communication with Registration Vendor: OAO contract staff had already contacted the vendor looking for information on gauges. The vendor could only provide information concerning other RCODES associated with this licensee.

Subject: Stolen Nuclear Gauge

At 2:20 p.m., on July 26, 1993, a general licensee in Beaver, West Virginia notified NRC's Region II office that a nuclear gauge (Kay Ray Model No. 3660) containing a 100 millicurie cesium 137 sealed source had been stolen from a locked storage area at a coal preparation plant at Coal Mountain, Wyoming County, West Virginia. The gauge was locked shut and was being stored, not in use at the time it was stolen. The gauge was stolen sometime between July 7, 1993, when it was last checked by a company employee, and July 22, when a company employee noticed it was missing. The gauge was stolen along with an assortment of other equipment and supplies from the same storage area. The licensee filed a report of the theft with local law enforcement officials.

The State of West Virginia and the Commonwealths of Virginia and Kentucky have been notified.

The Company will be issuing a press release to the local media by noon today.

This information is current as of 9:00 a.m., July 27, 1993.
