Dwight,

I did talk to Allen Hiser. He says the gov't van holds 15 people, so there should be room for us. He plans to leave here at 6:30 am next Monday.

Allen also says he has some 308 clad strength data. I told him about you, so you could approach him without me if you want. One caution -- he's trying to finish-up his dissertation but can't get the time he needs at home to do it, so he's more than normally stressed, right now. But, he's generally a good guy you should meet, which you will surely do on the trip.

Steve

Have you heard anything about the trip to Lynchburg?

Also, I am still looking at stainless steel data, and I plan on going to the library to relook over the one nureg
