Works for me

Currently, my schedule best support extending the Thursday call - we can go 3-5 on Thursday (EDT) for this week.

>>> John Grobe 09/09/02 01:53PM >>>
Tuesday is 2-3:30
Thursday is 2-3

>>> William Dean 09/09/02 12:52PM >>>
Figures - how long are these topics scheduled for? we could delay start of meeting an hour, or deal with the routine stuff first?

>>> John Grobe 09/09/02 01:50PM >>>
I'm OK with that too....I just wanted to be on the Tues ET brief and Thurs Kane brief on the risk assessment.....they are both at 2:00 EDT

>>> William Dean 09/09/02 12:20PM >>>
I would have voted for keeping our Tuesday afternoon or Thursday afternoon, and just extending a 1/2 hour each way (1:30 to 4:30 EDT) - Since we have established Tue and THur as 0350 days, I have worked other routine items around that. This week, we could just go for Thursday. Next week we are on site for 2 1/2 days, so that is suffice for that week.

You may be right. Should we start weekly meetings this week and do a Wednesday morning? Then we would be ready for the Wed afternoon call with the licensee. Would that work for everyone? We could initially set up 3 hours just to make sure we don't get bogged down (i.e., go from 4 hours on T/Th to 3 hours on Wed)?

Either we cancel our meeting and make our Thursday call a little longer or go to a different time. I think the time is near to go to weekly meetings anyway.

Bill/Christine,

I think this is an important briefing as well as the follow-up briefing later this week with Kane. Can we work the 0350 schedule so we can support the briefings too?

Unfortunately, this is the only time available were the ET are available.

>>> John Grobe 09/06/02 01:01PM >>>
I currently have a regularly scheduled internal 0350 Panel meeting that conflicts with this time. If this is the only time, we can move the panel, but that affects about a dozen people so I would rather not.

Let me know.
