Subject: Plutonium and MOX Fuel

In response to the review being done of these military tools, I would like to register my outrage and disgust at the preparedness of the government to continue to disregard years of advancement in protecting the public health and natural environment. The testing and transport of these fuels continues to unfairly burden less fortunate communities. How will this be reconciled? The current plans do not allow for accident protection to these communities. Also cheaper and safer methods of achieving the same ends have not thoroughly enough been explored. I hope a future review would consider other options that would less negatively impact our environment.
