See the attached email. I kind of committed us to include additional info in our communications. Most documents may be posted in ADAMS and the NRC web via the document collections. If the document is borderline such that we decide that we will not withhold it from the public but would rather not advertise its availability, we may use approach of making it public but not posting it on the web. We should try to communicate whether a release includes ADAMS and web (most of the time) or ADAMS only.
