Dear Tom,

I just received the minutes of our meeting on September 7. I think they fairly accurately reflect what was said, especially considering the challenges of transcribing so many speakers in an informal setting. I have a few minor emendations:

- page 3, line 9 - "a tax" should read "attacks."
- page 4, line 14 - I believe the speaker is Joe Bunting.
- page 5, line 23 - I believe the speaker is Joe Bunting.
- page 12, line 1 - Speaker is Bradley rather than Avery.
- page 17, line 12 and 23 - Speaker is probably Avery.
- page 18, line 3 - Speaker is probably Avery.
- page 19, line 23 - Speaker is probably Avery.
- page 20, line 7, 13, and 30 - Speaker is probably Avery.
- page 21, line 7 - Speaker is probably Avery.
- page 23, line 25 - Speaker is probably Avery.

One final matter. At page 1, line 5 the word "scrutinized" should substitute for the phrase "screwed in the end." If placed under oath, I may have to confess to employing the occasional barnyard epithet, usually in situations of extreme distress or intemperate levity -- who would not? But heaven forfend I should do so while transacting official business! I vividly recall using the word "scrutinized" -- it is part of my standard speech on conflicts of interest.

I really appreciate the excellent tour you gave us and the frank and productive discussions we had during our visit.

Best wishes,
