It looks like we will need to hold off until tomorrow; Carol Gallagher is going to notify the contractor at LLNL and set up a time that is good for him since he's on the west coast. The main issue is how we will appropriately screen comments that are posted to the web... I assume the first line of defense are Trish and Cyndi's teams. The rulemaking web site is still available to those who go directly there without going through our site, so someone should be looking at the information currently posted to ensure no sensitive information appears. I will let you know when we can meet... thanks for being so responsive.

>>> Patricia Holahan 10/16/01 10:40AM >>>

I am available to meet this afternoon. I do have a 12:30 meeting with Carl but otherwise my afternoon is open.

>>> Mindy Landau 10/16/01 07:28AM >>>

As you know, our web site is down for public use so that we can better determine which material is suitable for viewing. We want to get the rulemaking site up and running soon, but there are some major considerations. Our contractor will need to be mindful of the "discussion threads" and the need to filter certain material that is not suitable for public dissemination. I'd like to set up a meeting with the three of you, and have the contractor on the phone, to go over some criteria we have used to filter material, and make sure we are all on the same page before the site can be re-posted. Mike, can you set something up with the contractor ahead of time? I would like to do it today, since the Chairman is particularly interested in the "public involvement" portions of the site, and this one is an important one. If each of you could let me know your availability today, that would be great.

The contractor is available most of the day. If we can pin Trish and Cindi down to a time we'll call LLNL and nail the contractor to his desk for that time.
