Bernie:

Will the "simple tests/experiments" to verify the "assumptions" about the small plane with explosives be completed in time for the second report? Do we need additional money for them? I don't understand why SNL jump to their conclusions (or assumptions as they call them) so quickly without any computer simulation or experimental work.

I agree there needs to be a "place holder" for a jetliner crash into a rail cask on a rail car in the report. This question wil definitely be asked sooner or later.

Attached are my comments to what I recieved from SNL revising their outline for the Sept 30th report based on our previous comments. I do not see any point in making a revision to the outline since it needs to changed when split into two reports.

Comments??

Thanks
Bernie
