Subject: Rulemaking Web Page Still Publically Available

Mindy,

I know that the NRC external web page has been made temporarily unavailable to the public while staff reviews the content again for material that makes someone nervous. However, the public can still access the NRC rulemaking (<http://ruleforum.llnl.gov>) and Technical Conference (<http://techconf.llnl.gov>) web pages operated for us by Livermore Labs. The Technical Conference web site does not have anything that needs to be pulled. However, Trish Holahan told me this afternoon that there may be some material on the rulemaking web page that someone could be concerned over. She said that Tony Di Palo would review the NMSS material on that page and report to Brian Smith for forwarding to you. In the meantime, the site is still available to anyone who has bookmarked it.
