We don't have a definite schedule at this time. We are populating the site with more material scheduled for December 21. We are still waiting for the review of sensitive material to be completed before we can resume posting most of our Document Collections. Thank you for your interest and please be patient for a bit longer.

I was curious as to when the NRC web site might resume some of the previous services it offered? Is there a schedule for a roll-out of a new site format?

Thanks in advance for your response.

David
