The word from our experts is RIS 2001-005 allows applicants to submit 1 original (no exemption required). This could be in the form of paper or cd-rom and in one of the following forms:

PDF Image plus Hidden Text
PDF Normal
or multi page tiff (OUR LEAST PREFERRED OPTION)

Thanks.
However, I am really confused now.

The note on the information indicates that an exemption is required. I was not under the impression that this was so...

Note: the NRC also issued RIS 2001-005, Guidance on Submitting Documents to the NRC by Electronic Information Exchange or on CD-ROM. An applicant would have to request and receive an exemption in order to provide 1 copy -- paper or electronic (over 15MB file size would need to be submitted on a CD).

50.4(c) says only that contact with the Information and Records Management Branch is necessary to submit other than paper, and RIS 2001-005 says it provides the waiver necessary to fulfill that contact and the case-by-case approval to submit on CD.

Our current intent was to provide one paper copy, a web-ready CD, and some number of additional CDs (depending on how many you need) as identified in RIS 2001-005.

If I really need an exemption, I need to know soon so I can get that request moving...???
