In Reference 1, you requested an update to the document and page count estimates relative to the number of documents the DOE intends to certify as available via the LSN website, along with an estimate of the confidence level we have in our new estimate. We provided an interim response to your request on December 2, 2004 (reference 2). At this time, we are still reviewing our documents to identify additional "documentary material" for inclusion in DOE's LSN collection when we certify. Until we have completed this review and processing of the documents identified, it is impossible for us to provide high confidence estimates of our total DOE LSN collection. However, in an attempt to be responsive to your request, we are providing you the following preliminary estimates of the range of documents and pages to be included in DOE's LSN collection at the time of certification. It is our estimate at this time that the total DOE LSN collection at the time of certification will contain between 3,050,000 and 3,990,000 documents. It is further estimated that these documents will contain between 26,060,000 and 34,200,000 pages. After certification, we estimate that DOE annually will generate between 200,000 and 275,000 new documents consisting of between 1,700,000 and 2,350,000 pages that will need to be added to DOE's LSN collection.
