

From: James Thompson
To: Collins, Elmo
Date: 12/4/03 5:59PM
Subject: Telephone conversation with Nuclear Testing Services

Gentlemen:

This is to document the telephone conversation with Ken Pollack, the RSO of Nuclear Testing Services of Salt Lake City, Utah at approximately 4:45pm on December 4, 2003.

The transcription from the OI interview with Mr. Billy Berry had documented that Berry stated that he sent the 2401's to Fair Testing Services in Utah to see if they could be repaired; that is why the gauges were not present during Mr. Fuller's inspection on February 11, 2002. Upon attempting to locate "Fair Testing Services", I found that no company by that name existed in Utah. The State Department of Commerce for Utah stated there was no company by that name in Utah. There is, however, a company called "Nuclear Testing Services (NTS)" in Salt Lake City, Utah; they perform maintenance on portable nuclear gauges.

Mr. Gonsoulin and I called the RSO of NTS, Ken Pollack, and inquired whether he recalled receiving gauges from All Tech Corporation (ATC). Mr. Pollack stated that he did not recall any business dealings with ATC, but that he would have to check his records to be sure. When he returned the call, Mr. Gonsoulin was not available, so I took the information. Mr. Pollack stated that NTS had sold ATC two Troxler 3411's on March 15, 2000. He also stated that he had leased ATC two Troxler 3430's, serial numbers 20752 and 24445, in May and June of 2001. He stated that ATC returned the two leased gauges on March 1, 2002, and never paid NTS for the period of time he had leased them. Further, Mr. Pollack stated that he had never performed calibrations on these nor any 2401's for ATC at any time. Mr. Pollack specifically stated that during the month of February, 2002, ATC never contacted NTS about service on the 2401's, nor did NTS ever receive any 2401's from ATC, as stated by Mr. Berry during the OI interview with Mr. Gonsoulin.

Please contact me with any questions you may have regarding this correspondence.
Thank you,
-James

CC: Gonsoulin, Brian; Shaffer, Mark; Whitten, Jack