Subject: ALL TECH CASE - TELECON WITH BOOTH

I just got off the telephone with Richard Booth. I told him that relative to our last telecon last week, we are trying to corroborate what Billy Berry told us at the PEC - he told us that the morning of the inspection, Qal-Tek took the gauges with them. When Booth asked me to remind him about that outfit in Salt Lake City - Nuclear Testing Services - I told him that we had contacted them because we were thinking that maybe Billy got confused about whether it was Qal-Tek or Nuclear Testing Services who had the gauges.

I stressed to Mr. Booth that we are trying to corroborate what they told us at the conference. He said he'd get on it and see if they have any documents. I told him that we hope to wrap up the case in a week or two. I didn't think it would be next week, but more realistically in a couple of weeks - assuming there aren't any further delays.

He did say that if we ruled the wrong way, he planned to appeal. I told him that was fine - that was his right. He said he'd keep me informed.
