Roger

Thank you for your response. After the permit is issued and prior to conducting any ground disturbing activities in areas with moderate to high potential for historic or cultural resources, Dominion will consult with the Virginia Department of Historic Resources concerning the need for additional field inventory of the affected acreage. Jack,

You are correct in interpreting our comments as requesting continued consultation on all ground-disturbing activities related to the ESP. Once specific activities are identified, Dominion should provide for our review a completed Project Review Application Form (available from our website: www.dhr.virginia.gov), making sure to fully describe the proposed action and note known resources and the potential for unrecorded cultural resources based on the established three-tiered site assessment. Thank you for following up on this. Let me know if you have any questions.

Roger,

Attached is your January 5, 2005, letter. Does this letter complete the consultation with the stipulation contained in the DEIS that Dominion would consult with the Virginia Department of Historic Resources prior to undertaking any ground disturbing activities regarding the need for a field inventory for historic and cultural resources?

Thank you
