Summary:	NRC sent a RAI to Alpha Q dated July 21, 2005, which included comments on a "final" survey submitted by the licensee. David performed the original survey and called as the licensee's representative to discuss how to approach planning an acceptable final survey. We discussed the letter and current NRC guidance that describes acceptable surveys. This seemed to be a productive and worthwhile phone call, and represents the first successful telephone contact with this licensee (it has been difficult to reach the licensee in the past). David is a more readily accessible contact, and he agreed to stay in contact, and to call with any questions. I reemphasized the value of NRC involvement in understanding the licensee's plans and approaches while they are developing, and that this is the most efficient approach to reach successful conclusion.
Action Required:	Alpha Q is developing a plan for conducting a satisfactory final survey. Plan is to reply in writing to RAI.
