Randy - I was disappointed also. That morning I had reviewed my plan to participate with Scott, left it up to him as to whether a bridge was needed, and asked to be called at the site. We forgot you would be calling in and didn't expect NRR to be on.

Well into the call I spoke with Sharon, who explained the situation. While she offered to try to set up the phones for me to participate, she also mentioned that phone difficulties had already been experienced. I deferred, given Scott's participation, the difficulty of participating by phone, and the likelihood of further phone disruptions.

The lesson learned was to just set up the bridge and not guess as to participants.

i was surprised and disappointed that you were not on the panel.
At the end of the panel, Eileen, then scott, raised resource and schedule issues that would have benefitted from your engagement, before and during the panel.
