Dear Ms. Vietti-Cook:

On the subject of RIN-3150 AH68; I ask that your agency - the NRC, not to accept and implement the EPA's flawed draft standard on this important regulation.

Issues of importance have a public comment period for all parties to weigh in, state their points of view and regulations crafted with all available information presented.

For the NRC to accept and implement this flawed draft standard without public comment is an abuse of the regulatory system. Their proposed standard is contrary to public health and needs to be commented upon by all interested parties.

Only then, after careful consideration should a standard, with all parties commenting can be redrafted and implemented.

This regulation is flawed and deserves to have all evidence presented before a new standard is implemented.

I expect that you will follow normal procedure and allow for public comments, allowing for revisions before implementation of RIN-3150 AH68.

Thank you

Don Riggs
