Dear Gentlemen:

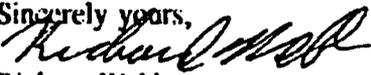

Subject: Teleconference 9 January 2006

Thank you very much for conferring with me today! By this present letter I propose to note the proceedings of our conference with respect to the several particular concerns which I have raised in my earlier communications.

Gentlemen, I have been composing a report and follow-on letter to our conference, which is now nearly finished. I shall transmit it tomorrow. I have also been delayed to attend to other matters that have been urgent, which has caused some delay in my finishing this note. It is presently about six pages. I shall finish it tomorrow.

Sincerely yours,

Richard Webb
