RULEMAKINGS AND ADJUDICATIONS STAFF

I am tremendously concerned and shocked when I read that the Nuclear Regulatory Commission has apparently chosen to ignore what I thought was a Congressional mandate requiring the upgrading of security for the country's nuclear power plants. I wish to encourage your commission to take immediate steps to upgrade security. Systems to guard against air attacks (construction of "Beamhenge" shields sound to my non-technical ear to be a worthwhile undertaking) as well as beefing up security to protect against possible land assaults to nuclear power plants seem to be at a minimum the direction your commission should be going. To ignore the threats that the world terrorism poses is just irresponsible.
