Friday I finished looking at the executive summary prepared by Dan & Mel. It goes includes greater detail than the notes I have from my review and basically addresses the same concepts/insights. The only thing that I made note of that they did not was the variation among the different demographic groups. I thought the differences were notable and I have already included a copy of the file I generated to graphically depict the results in a previous email to all of you. If you do not have the info and would like it let me know and I'll email it to you again.
