NATIONAL JOINT TERRORISM TASK FORCE
MEMBER AGENCY DATABASE LISTING
(CURRENT AS OF 26 MAY 03)

FOREWORD:

A. This listing informs local Joint Terrorism Task Forces (JTTF) and other customers on the availability of 98 national level databases through the National Joint Terrorism Task Force (NJTTF) and provides "one-stop-shopping" for name checks as well as for other terrorism-related information, such as terrorist groups and organizations, events, facilities, countries, equipment, weapons, communication, religion, and finances. The listing also identifies several web sites that can be accessed for terrorism-related research and for general background information on the terrorism topic. Not included are commonly known and widely accessible law enforcement databases such as ACS, IIIA, LEO, and NCIC.

B. The NJTTF asks that all requests for name checks or other information be limited to those databases that will logically provide the information needed. A careful choice of appropriate, case-related databases will result in quick responses. Requesters are encouraged to work with the appropriate representatives at their local JTTF before contacting the NJTTF.

DATABASE:

- Personnel Access Data System (PADS) - a database for U.S. nuclear power plant workers with unescorted access; includes all workers, as of July 2003, granted access to the protected area of a nuclear licensee site and includes as well those workers who have been denied unescorted access to said site during the past five years. PADS includes demographic information on a person (name, DOB, SSN), training information, dates of completion of essential elements related to the requirements for unescorted access, and radiation exposure information collected by the licensee as part of the access authorization process, along with the dates of access at each licensee site where access was granted. The database also includes "flagging" criteria to alert a downstream licensee of a condition which is a potentially granting licensee would need to evaluate prior to the decision to further grant access. NOTE: NRC has access to PADS through the Nuclear Energy Institute (NEI) and/or a licensee.
