

Brochu, Jill

From: Robert Prescott [rprescott@massaudubon.org]
Sent: Saturday, January 15, 2005 10:52 AM
To: Brochu, Jill
Subject: RE: Turtle Stranding - Plymouth 2003

Hi Jill,

We don't have any way of knowing the age of sea turtles. The Plymouth loggerhead weighed about 50 pounds and might have been about 4 or 5 years old. Still a baby when you consider they can weigh as much as 400 pounds.

Bob

-----Original Message-----

From: Brochu, Jill [mailto:JBroc94@entergy.com]
Sent: Friday, January 14, 2005 9:37 AM
To: 'rprescott@massaudubon.org'
Subject: RE: Turtle Stranding - Plymouth 2003

Hi Bob,

Again, thank you fro the information on the loggerhead in Plymouth. One additional piece of information which I would be interested in if it is available would be the approximate age of the loggerhead which stranded in Plymouth.

Thanks,

Jill

-----Original Message-----

From: Robert Prescott [mailto:rprescott@massaudubon.org]
Sent: Wednesday, January 12, 2005 9:15 AM
To: Brochu, Jill
Subject: RE: Turtle Stranding - Plymouth 2003

Hi Jill,

The loggerhead you are inquiring about stranded on November 5, 2003 on Priscilla Beach. I'd have to check my records to be sure, but, I believe it is the only sea turtle to have stranded in Plymouth in 25 years of my keeping records.

Bob

-----Original Message-----

From: Brochu, Jill [mailto:JBrochu@entergy.com]
Sent: Tuesday, January 11, 2005 12:47 PM
To: wellfleet@massaudubon.org
Subject: Turtle Stranding - Plymouth 2003

Good Afternoon,

I am doing research into sea turtle strandings which have taken place in Massachusetts within the past few years. In the year 2003, one turtle, a loggerhead, was discovered DOA in Plymouth. Would it be possible to know the location where the turtle was found?

Thank you in advance for your assistance.

Jill Brochu
508-830-8315