You must make your regulations more strict, so that no radioactive materials are released into the environment until they diminish to background radiation levels, since no level of increased radiation exposure has been proven safe, and the Federal Government has been notorious for irresponsibly contaminating the environment with dangerous radioactivity. You should charge whatever fees you need to charge generators of radioactive waste, to pay for your enforcement of these needed regulations. Make the polluter pay. Or did the nuclear industry bribe Congress and the Bush-man to be lax in regulating the nuclear industry???
