Indian Point Energy Center Status Report

August 23, 2006

Operational Status

At 10:36 a.m. today, operators at the Indian Point 2 nuclear plant took prudent measures to manually shut down the reactor after detecting a problem with a heat drain tank level control system. The system monitors water level in a tank that captures drain water from heaters that heat the non-radioactive water, which is eventually returned to the steam generators.

An investigation into the cause of the monitoring system malfunction is in progress. The plant will return to service once the cause is identified and a repair is made.

IP2 safely operated for 97 continuous days.

Indian Point Unit 3 is at 100% reactor power and has been on line 33 days.

Educational Outreach
