SPECIFIC PROJECT EXPERIENCE

Well Injection of Radioactive Tracers: Prudhoe Bay, Alaska

This ten-day project was designed to model sub-surface flow of produced oil and injected brine solutions. Responsible for calculating expected exposure rates, disposal concentrations and developing specific health physics procedures to be employed in - 40^o temperatures. A total of 300 curies of tritium and 4 curies of cobalt - 60 were injected with a maximum individual dose of 100 millirem. Another 35 - 40 days were spent on projects of a similar nature at oil refineries in Louisiana and Montana.

D & D Project for a Pharmaceutical Research Lab: King of Prussia, PA

Supervised onsite five technicians to survey and decontaminate a 25,000 ft² complex of buildings in a two month project. Removed approximately 600 ft³ of radioactive waste including 240 linear feet of exhaust duct. Performed a complete demolition of a carbon - 14 synthesis lab. Sole author of the site specific HASP, decontamination plan and D & D report following NUREG/5849 recommendations. Decontamination equipment included cement scabblers, jack hammers and heavy gauge metal cutting shears.

Environmental Sampling and Assessments: Montclair, NJ

Surveyed, sampled and assessed contamination levels at over thirty homes constructed on radium contaminated fill. Much of the work involved informal discussion of the results with homeowners, as well as meetings with town officials and regulatory agencies
