Re: Docket #PRM-51-11

We urge the NRC to update its generic environmental impact statement for nuclear plant licensing renewal applications. New scientific information on the health risks of low level radiation, released by the National Academy of Sciences and other researchers, indicates that cancer risks from low levels of ionizing radiation are much higher than previously thought, and even higher regarding infants and children. Current allowable levels are not safe!

It is essential that the NRC reconcile its "Generic Environmental Impact Statement for License Renewal of Nuclear Plants" to conform with the National Academy of Sciences BEIR VII, phase 2 report which was released in 2005 and not the earlier BEIR V report issued in 1990.

Sincerely,
Janet & Walter Schwarz
