Please do not build or implement a food irradiation facility in Honolulu. Your Nuclear Regulatory Commission did a bad job assessing the environmental impact for this proposal. There was no independent research or modeling of the impact of a catastrophic event. You did not measure or derive new data as part of this report. Why would using an inspection report from a Pennsylvania facility be appropriate for Honolulu. The Hawaiian environment is different and should be studied separately. Did you consider the impact of an airplane crash on the facility? Did you consider the effects of losing control of radioactive materials? Did you consider security of the facility? And did you consider that the people of Hawaii do not want irradiated food?
 Please reconsider your decision.

Regards,
 Diane Pedersen
