Marc

Thanks for the email and for trying to track some testing info. That is the fence style we were discussing. Of course, IMPASSE is a trade name but I don't know of anyone else who is marketing a similar product at this time.

Steven,

Truly appreciated your time, feedback and discussion that occurred during my recent visit to the Vogtle site in conjunction with the Vogtle ESP site audit/tour.

Per our discussions, a description of the IMPASSE high security fence has been forwarded to our respective contacts at DOE and the National Laboratories to determine if any governmental affiliated performance testing has been conducted and the results of those analyses. Unfortunately, due to the holiday season we are awaiting these results and will apprise you of the results.

However, with only having the fence name, please confirm that the fence described in the attached web-links is the actual fencing being considered for emplacement at the site:
