The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has teamed up with the Department of Commerce to sponsor a workshop Sept. 24-27 in Dallas, Texas, to provide academic communities that serve minorities information about various partnership opportunities with federal agencies through grants, contracts, cooperative agreements, and internships.

Minority serving institutions include Alaskan Native Colleges and Universities, Hispanic Serving Institutions, Hawaiian Native Colleges and Universities, Historically Black Colleges and Universities, and Tribal Colleges and Universities.

Special presentations will be given by the executive leaders from the White House Initiatives for Hispanic Serving Institutions, Historically Black Colleges and Universities; and Tribal Colleges and Universities.
