STV notes that pursuant to the Board's January 16 Order STV has no obligation to identify:

(a) Communications, for which the attorney-client privilege is claimed, that originated from counsel to the client and/or its retained consultants, or originated from the client and/or its retained consultants to counsel, when no other person outside the client control group was included among the recipients, and

(b) Documents to which the attorney work-product privilege is claimed when the documents are authored by counsel when no other person outside the client control group was included among the recipients. If a document was not authored by counsel and the work-product privilege is claimed the document must be identified on the privilege log as required by 10 C.F.R. §§ 2.336(a)(3) and (b)(5). Documents created primarily to facilitate preparation of pleadings and mandatory disclosures associated with this proceeding need not be listed on the privilege log. STV understands, however, that non-privileged attachments to documents for which a privilege is claimed, whether or not the covering document is listed on the privilege log, are subject to disclosure.
