We have enough trouble trying to convince Americans that nuclear energy is viable alternative to oil, but when we offer foreign nations a dumping ground for its nuclear waste we become just another example of sucking up to the world instead of looking for acceptable ways to handle our own nuclear waste. Come on! Let other nations find their own solutions and let the U.S.

continue to find ways to make nuclear energy palatable to our own citizens.

The longer we wait to add more nuclear as an option to foreign oil the more we become beholden to terrorist nations. And by offering our precious land to others as a dump the less likely Americans will be to accept nuclear in the future.
