SECRETARY, U. S. NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION
WASHINGTON, D. C. 20555-0001

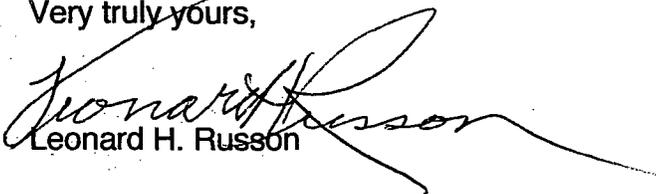

Dear Mr. Secretary,

It is inconceivable that the United States should become the dumping ground for other nations ridding themselves of nuclear waste. Each nation should be responsible for its own waste or should not be in the business of nuclear development.

Furthermore, no individual State should become the dumping ground for other States of the Union in regards to nuclear waste. With nuclear development should come responsibility. It is inherently unfair to force a small state, such as Utah, to deal with waste from large States. Those states have more resources and the ability to deal with their waste. Just as each state should deal with its human waste, each should deal with its nuclear waste.

Please give this your close consideration.

Very truly yours,

Leonard H. Russon
