Amy:
I talked to Guy on Friday about our anticipation that the transmission ROW discussions and Need for Power discussions would need to be scheduled. As far as other areas, Darby and I will certainly talk to other reviewers to see their thoughts. I am not certain how much feedback I will have for Monday's phone call, but we will be looking into it. Hydrology might be the only challenge with their not being able to start looking at environmental information until Wednesday morning. I'll get back with you.

Hi Tammy,

I would like to talk to you about adding some more structure to the schedule in terms of set times for specific topics Q&A. I think this would benefit both sides, having my SMEs where they need to be, and assuring we have the right coverage to meet your reviewer needs. Of course, we need to be flexible throughout the week and answer questions as they arise, which we can do as well.

Not sure of your thoughts on this? Let me know. If you agree, we could talk by phone. Please let me know a good time to contact you?

Thanks,
Amy

Amy, Guy, Derek:

I think we are converging on final list of attendees from PNNL and NRC. We might have a senior staff member (one step above our branch chief) who may stop in for a bit on either side of the scoping meeting (either Wed afternoon or Friday morning.) His name is Andy Campbell and he is an acting deputy division director. I'll let you know when he has made his plans.

I've tried to indicate which team members will be around on which days. (eg. safety hydrologists will be gone after Tuesday evening, I presume). Note that the ecologists are probably going to try to get together with one or two state and/or federal agencies other than the National Park Service which will also involve the land use people. I'm going to try to work those in on either Wednesday afternoon. Another possibility might be Tuesday if can fit before or after transmission line tour. I'll keep you informed as we coordinate those.

Tami
