I'll call him today and remind him. He also is going to have some breakout rooms for the media, including a room where they can do interviews with us or anyone else. He also will have a computer access room - and they do have wireless for the laptop folks.

Thanks Chip,

If you talk to Rich Thames again, please let him know that we plan to have a couple of laptops set up in the lobby for demos of how to access the NRC website and how to find documents in ADAMS. Paul has already talked with the folks at the Civic Center about this, but I just want to make sure that everyone is on board with this.

Butch

Paul, Chet:

I'm on the phone with Rich Thames, President of the Bay City Chamber of Commerce. He's in charge of the civic center, so I took the liberty of talking to him about room set up. They are moving us into the main hall this time rather than the smaller room. He expects a big crowd based on the news about town. This is good. I asked him to set the room up in a semi-circle - pie shaped wedges with plenty of aisles. We'll have a podium up front for our speakers and for the commenters. We'll also have a table for the primary NRC speakers - there also will be a mike at the table. I'll have a cordless, as usual. I do not want the staff table up on a riser but he will have it on a small platform (4 inches) so that people in the back of the room can see the speakers. I've also asked the activist groups if they want a table in the foyer and the Chamber is ready to provide them. I'm in tomorrow if you need me. Otherwise, i'll see you Monday.

One other note, we may have someone from UCS from DC at the meeting - possibly John Block.
