IE INFORMATION NOTICE NO. 84-93: POTENTIAL FOR LOSS OF WATER FROM THE REFUELING CAVITY

Addressees:

All holders of a nuclear power reactor operating license (OL) or construction permit (CP) except Fort St. Vrain.

Purpose:

This notice is provided to alert licensees and applicants to features in some PWRs and BWRs that may have a significant potential to cause loss of water in the refueling cavity. It is expected that recipients will review the information for applicability to their facilities and consider actions, if appropriate, to preclude similar problems from occurring at their facilities. However, suggestions contained in this information notice do not constitute NRC requirements and, therefore, no specific action or response is required.

Description of Circumstances:

On August 21, 1984, the Haddam Neck plant experienced a failure of the refueling cavity water seal with the refueling cavity flooded in preparation for refueling. The refueling cavity water level (23 feet) decreased to the level of the reactor vessel flange in about 20 minutes, which flooded the containment with approximately 200,000 gallons of water. The leak developed when the pneumatic seal assembly was forced out of the normal position as a result of static water pressure. The pneumatic seal assembly remained intact but was extruded through the gap for about 25 percent of its circumference.

No fuel was being transferred at the time of this seal failure. If fuel had been in transfer at the time, it could have been partially or completely uncovered with possible high radiation levels, fuel cladding failure, and release of radioactivity. In addition, if the fuel transfer tube had been open, the spent fuel pool could have drained to a level that would have uncovered the top of the fuel assemblies stored in the pool. IE Bulletin No. 84-03, "Refueling Cavity Water Seal," was issued on August 24, 1984, as a result of the above incident.

While evaluating the potential for loss of water from refueling cavities at other plants, the NRC staff learned from the Electric Power Research Institute (EPRI) that reactor cavity seal development testing had been previously

No specific action or written response is required by this information notice. If you have any questions about this matter, please contact the Regional Administrator of the appropriate NRC regional office or this office.
